

June 20, 2013

To Whom It May Concern:

It is my pleasure to recommend the website development services of Colophon New Media. In January of this year, Coleman-Snow Consultants reorganized and changed its name to Infrastructure Consulting and Engineering (ICE). In order to make a seamless transition, it was critical that clients, partners and vendors received information regarding contracts, project updates and contacts immediately. This could only be achieved through clear communications including a new company website.

After contacting Colophon New Media, they jumped into action and within a week sent several design concepts for review. Once the design was decided upon, Colophon's representatives created a web-based content manager for ICE to quickly and easily upload project write-ups, photos, maps, contact information and news articles for the new website. ICE executives performed several reviews of the beta site and after final approval and content management training, the site launched in less than two months from initial contact.

Colophon New Media offers top-notch quality, service and rates. Across the board, ICE is very pleased with their work and customer service. They have an unrivaled attention to detail and concern for quality.

Please consider Colophon New Media for your website development needs. I recommend them and look forward to working with them again.

Sincerely,

Lynda D. Monroe
Public Relations Coordinator/Marketing Manager